

Schneider's Quality Meats

Waterloo, Illinois

“In an era where family-owned meat markets are dropping like flies, we’re still going strong” remark Mark and Robin Lengacher, owners of Schneider’s Quality Meats in Waterloo, Illinois. Specializing in only the freshest cuts of pork and beef, Schneider’s is known for their award winning varieties of sausage, especially their bratwurst. Schneider’s butchers still wear crisp white aprons, they still give the exact cut of meat the customer wants, and they will wrap the meat in butcher paper just like you remember. The business is primarily a retail store servicing the local communities, but they also have large commercial accounts and provide catering service as well. Mark and Robin had purchased the business in 2000. When they were ready to buy the real estate as well, they worked with Steve Lindsey, Growth Corp Vice President, to get the financing to make this possible. With the 504 Loan Program, they were able to get a fixed-rate for 20 years and take advantage of 90% financing, thereby lowering their cash investment into the project. Realizing the benefits of owning their business real estate, the couple is now focused on offering their private label items online. To view their website and check out their links (pun fully intended) go to www.schneidersqualitymeats.com .